I. R. Iran Volleyball Federation President Message

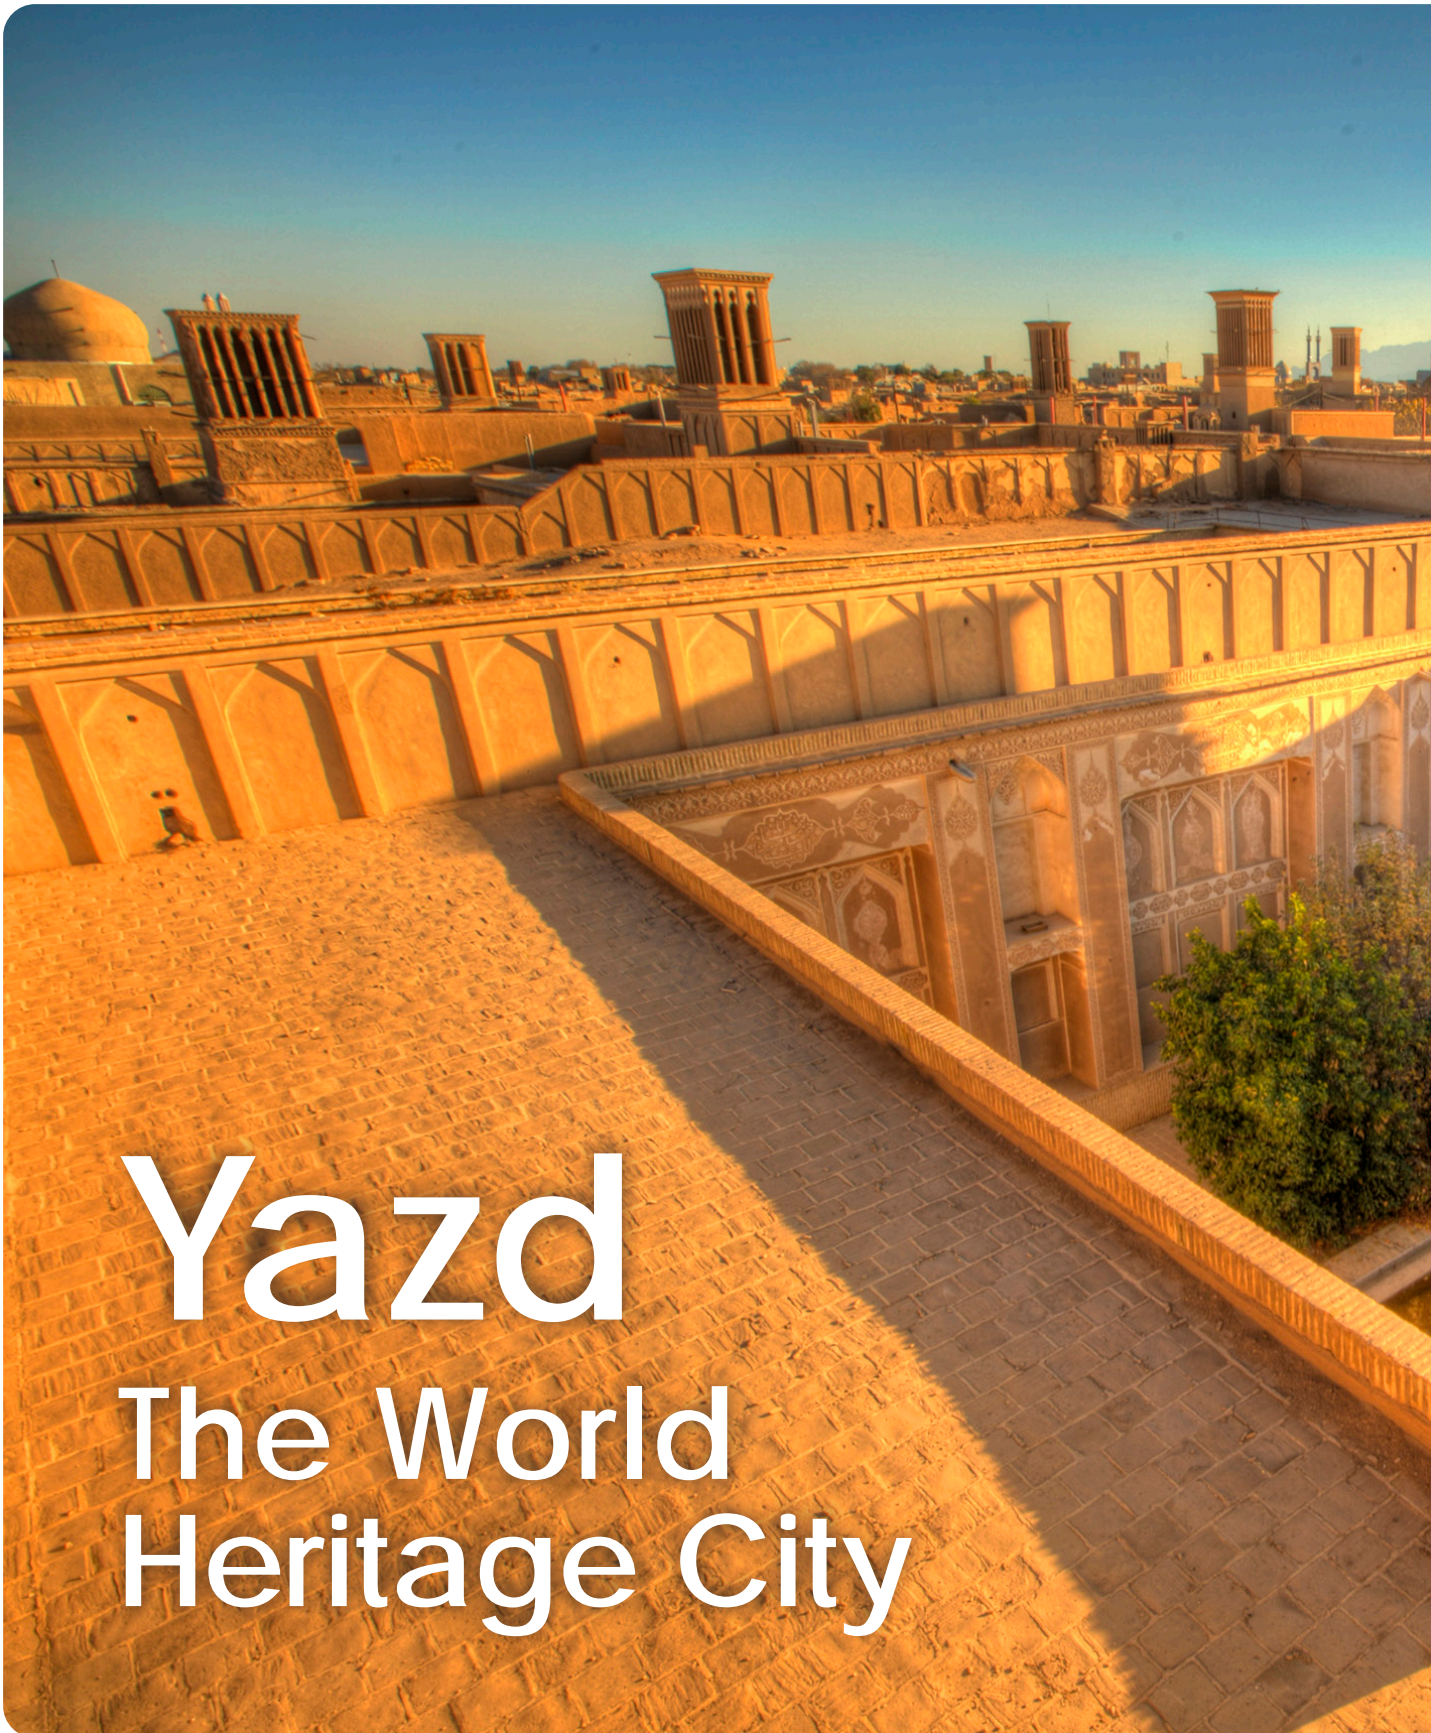

Yazd will become the world's volleyball capital with the presence of stars.

the 26th edition of the Asian Men's Club Championship volleyball competitions from September 18 to 25. This will mark the fifth time that the Islamic Republic of Iran has hosted this prestigious competition, with Tehran having previously hosted in 2002, 2004, 2013, and 2022. Notably, this year marks the first time that a city other than the capital will host these competitions.

Renowned as the city of Windcatchers and being recognized as the world's first mud-brick city, Yazd holds significance as a medical and cultural hub within Iran. The hosting of these competitions is expected to significantly enhance the city's standing as a tourism destination.

Yazd is famous for its old and traditional neighborhoods featuring mud-brick and mud alleys, comprising markets, mosques, and houses. However, with the participation of volleyball superstars such as Earvin N'Gapeth, Seyed Mohammad Mousavi, Amir Ghafour, and others, Yazd is poised to ascend to the status of a global volleyball capital. It is hoped that the players, technical staff of the participating teams, judges, members of the control committee, and foreign guests attending the tournament will carry back fond memories of their visit to Iran and the city of Yazd to their respective countries. The competition is anticipated to showcase a high level of play and deliver enthralling matches. With unwavering support from the Asian Volleyball Confederation and the Fédération Internationale de Volleyball, Iran has continually upheld its reputation for successfully hosting significant events in the realms of Asian and world volleyball. The hosting of this event in the city of Yazd is being accomplished with the full support of the esteemed governor of the province, the political and sports officials of the province, and the officials of the Ministry of Sports. It is our sincere hope that this event, steered by the honorable minister, will foster valuable and remarkable experiences for the advancement of volleyball in Asia and Iran.

Yazd

The World Heritage City

Yazd

The World Heritage City

Yazd is known as the world's first city built from raw brick and is considered one of Iran's cultural and medical hubs. The historical texture of this city was registered as a national heritage of Iran on March 6, 2006. Yazd is also famous as the city of windcatchers, the abode of worship, the house of knowledge and action, the city of bicycles, sweets, qanats (ancient underground irrigation systems), frugality, and the city of fire and sun.

Often recognized as the second historical city in the world, Yazd is distinguished by its unique architectural style; however, the grandeur and beauty of Yazd's architecture have always overshadowed other cultural aspects of this province, despite its undeniable benefits.

In the historical texture of Yazd, the houses are built with a distinctive desert architecture. The hallmark of this architectural style includes domes, windcatchers, and cisterns within the homes.

The houses are designed for both winter and summer use, with their unique and attractive rooftops intended for summer gatherings. They feature unique and beautiful courtyards. This historical texture attracts many tourists from around the world to Yazd each year.

The people of Yazd speak Persian, commonly with a Yazdi accent. In Yazd province, some dialectical features are noticeable among different counties. The "Zoroastrians" among themselves communicate in the Pahlavi language (Goruni or Zoroastrian Dari). Yazd County is located in a vast and arid valley between the Shirkoh and Kharanq mountains, stretching from 15 degrees and 53 minutes to 40 degrees and 54 minutes east longitude and from 46 degrees and 31 minutes to 15 degrees and 32 minutes north latitude. This county is bordered to the north by the cities of Meybod and Zarch, to the east by the cities of Ardakan and Bafq, to the west by Isfahan province, and to the south by the counties of Taft, Abarkuh, and Mehriz. The average elevation of Yazd County is 1,200 meters above sea level.

Located in the central part of the Iranian plateau, Yazd is subject to some of the most unsuitable natural factors affecting the central plateau of Iran. Low rainfall accompanied by severe evaporation, distance from the sea, proximity to a vast and arid salt desert, low relative humidity coupled with high temperatures, are among the factors that have made Yazd one of the driest regions in Iran. Additionally, there are significant fluctuations in temperature in this area. Geographically, the central point of Iran (Markar Clock) is situated in this city.

The most distinctive feature of Yazd is its unique desert architecture. Windcatchers, minarets, and domes are the most prominent aspects of the city's architectural style. In this architectural style, windcatchers are used to capture airflow and cool the interior spaces of the buildings.

Message from the CEO of Shahdab Yazd Cultural and Sports Club Amir Sharafat

Message from the CEO of Shahdab Cultural and Sports Club in Yazd Engineer Amir Sharafat : Today, Yazd, the city of world heritage, is responsible for its largest sports event in history; the 26th edition of the Asian Volleyball Club Championship in 2024, hosted by Shahdab Cultural and Sports Club in Yazd, will for the first time in the country's history, move beyond the political capital's borders to the historical, cultural, and touristic capital of Iran, to the beautiful city of Yazd; This important event, in addition to developing sports in the province, will introduce the unique historical, cultural, touristic, and of course, sports capacities of Yazd to people around the world. After achieving the third place in Asia in 2022, and the fourth place in Asia in 2023, this cultural and sports club has taken a leap forward to not only retain the golden cup in the city of world heritage, but also defend its national achievements, which includes two consecutive championships and a runner-up position in the professional league and the National Volleyball Men's Adults' Championships in Iran, and proudly wave its flag in the Asian volleyball arena. From September 8th, the best volleyball players from around the world will gather in this city, on the rooftop volleyball court of Iran, and alongside the tallest wind catcher in the world, the wind catcher of Dowlatabad Garden, and with the determination to reach the highest length underground aqueduct in history of this planet, Zarch aqueduct, they will engage in competition. The competition in the city of peaceful coexistence of religions, which roots back to the second oldest tree in the world, the Cypress of Abarquh, brings a message of peace and serves as a reminder of the continuity of human life in symbiotic existence.

It is hoped that this message will reach the ears of people worldwide, and that peace and friendship, together with the excitement and spirit of sports competition, echo across the vast expanse of existence in the exclusive stadium of Shahdab Yazd.

With a high sense of pride in hosting Yazd and these noble, knowledgeable, and volleyball-loving people, I raise the representation of the ancient continent.

Brief History of Iran's Volleyball

The History of Iran's volleyball dates back to 1920 around 100 years ago when Mr. Mir Mandi VARZANDEH, the great master of sport brought volleyball regulations to Iran. He began teaching it at the DARALMOALEMIN (house of sport teachers). At the first stage, volleyball did not have any special method; it was played in different shapes. Knowhow and tactics of volleyball as its rules did not follow any fundamental rubrics. Every player was playing it by his own private initiative that was attendant by punching the ball. In 1922, the use of translation of foreign magazines into Persian assisted in adopting those rules that were implemented in the other countries. Since 1925, the enthusiasts have garnered more attention to volleyball and in a short time; many people were attracted to this sport. So that the training of volleyball started seriously and continually in three different spots that were Daralmoalemin (House of sport teachers), Shayesteh or Ejtemaeiyon club, and Sport club of Alborz College. The latter comparing with the other two places had more and better facilities. Thus, most of the youth were going there for practice. After some months of training, the first volleyball match in 1925 took place between two teams of Daralmoalemin and Shayesteh club that created abundant joy. Since the match was new for the people, their presence created high rivalry between both teams; it added a lot of excitement to the match. The match was an introduction for day-to-day expanding of this new sport. Volleyball gradually found its way into the schools and in a short period by graduated teachers from Daralmoalemin expanded to schools and cities round the country. After Tehran, Esfahan was the second city that played a major role in the development of volleyball. The first match of the cities was held between two teams of Esfahan College and Alborz college of Tehran. Supplying the ball specific for volleyball was one of difficult matters in those days; players mostly were using the ball of football for playing volleyball. Finally, someone called Ghomshehei made the first ball of volleyball. In 1935, club matches were held in Tehran. DARBAND club crowned the championship. In this year, some friendly and encouraging matches were hold among women teams of Tehran. The first championship in volleyball simultaneously along with other sport disciplines was performed in 1939. By establishing sport federations in 1985, volleyball and Basketball jointly had a federation up to 1957, in those years matches were hold under the title of clubs championship, free groups, qualification groups, school sport, faculties of different cities and at last the national championship.

During the WWII (World War II), when the Allies occupied Iran, sport contacts especially in volleyball was done with soldiers, it was a new way to get familiar with volleyball of the other countries. At that time, a friendly match was fixed between Iran and Russian Army team in Bandar Anzaly where Iran successfully concluded the match. Translating a book into Persian on volleyball rules in 1954 by Dr. Seyed Ziaeddin SHADMAN was a valuable step taken. He was the contemporary president of the Volleyball and Basketball federation. The translated book was edited by Mr. Kazem RAHBARI, the chief of physical Education of schools in capital city; he was one of the distinguished referees in volleyball and active in some other sport disciplines. His book provided a methodical shape for organizing volleyball matches.

By the end of 1957, volleyball found its independent federation and Mr. Amir Abbas AMIN was nominated as the first president. It was then that membership in World Federation has been proposed and it came true one year after in 1959.

In 1958, for the first time national men's team of PAKISTAN was invited to Tehran to have some friendly matches with national team, club teams and Army team of Iran. The national volleyball senior men's of Iran were then composed a team for the first time. Some months later. Iran men's national team was dispatched to TOKYO for the Asian volleyball championship of 1958. The team had eight players: Kamal POORHASHEMI, Abdol Mon'em KAMAL, Mohammad Esmaeel ASHTARI, Mohammad SHARIFZADFH, Abbas TEHRANI, Nilahmood ADL. Hossein Ali AMIRI and Siavash FAROKHI.

Noteworthy to add that Mr. Fereydoon SHARIFZADEH who was one of the great coaches of volleyball, basketball and football accompanied them as the head coach, Formerly he had played for TURKEY Galatasaray. This was regarded as the first time volleyball team was participating in an important international event and could finally achieve the second place with glory and pride among the participants. Therefore, silver medal of the first Asian games was brought home as a valuable gift.

After these championship, international activities of Iran volleyball started, some of the prominent ones were dispatching coaches and referees to international courses. inviting men's and women's teams of other countries to Iran, participation of the national team of both gender in official international tournaments and championships such as Asian Games, Asian Championships, World Championship, World Student's Championship, World Military Games, World Championship for the Deaf, World Sitting Volleyball Championship, World Rail Road's Championship, Presidential Cup of TURKEY, Kazakhstan, and Sheikh Rashid of Emirates. In those years, Mr. Ebrahim Nemati was known as the international referee who was selected as a member of FIVB Referee Commission then. Local events such as league championship, called PASARGAD Cup were hold in 1974, 1975, and 1976. In addition, FAJR international championships, premier league, and first division league took place from 1993

–2006. All of them had significant importance resulted in expansion and progress of volleyball.

Volleyball after Islamic Revolution

During the first years of revolution and the imposed Iran-Iraq war, successive changes were made at presidential level of volleyball federation that caused immense alteration in combination of board members. Plans and schedules of volleyball did not employ stable structure. The attempts were mostly made in Public Sports.

Gradually by finishing the Imposed War and organizing the programs and management in sport, the shape of tournaments has changed in terms of quantity, quality, and administration. International contacts revived and volleyball has taken a new step toward a better start.

The international tournaments of Fajr Championship – from 1985 to 1999 – is of valuable events in the Iranian volleyball history that caused the improvement of Iran's volleyball and encouraged the clubs to participate in domestic competitions. Thus, Iranian premier league and league one competitions have founded in their novel way, as it is common elsewhere in the world.

The Story of History

A century after the beginning of the story (1920), Iran has now an incredible history and is at the apex of Asian volleyball as one of the top ten teams of the world. The path that went through decades and passed from the most basic formats of the game and the classic days to finally reach its modern era and recorded successive Asian championships, Asian Games and being among the top teams in the world and the Olympic Games.

Iran is now the champion of the last two Asian Games (2014-2018) and the champion of the three Asian's Championships (2011, 2013, 2019), the 12th team in the world volleyball ranking and one of the most popular teams of the world.

Volleyball is now among the three most popular sports in Iran (along with football and wrestling) and favors the support of million fans.

The Asian Games

The history of Iran volleyball in the Asian Games dates back to the first edition of the Games in Tokyo in 1958 when Iranian men won silver medal. Iranian women also made their bronze medal debut in 1966 at the Asian Games. In the same games, Iranian men also won bronze medal. But after that, Iran walked away from taking the podium for 36 years, until Iran winning the silver medal once again in Busan 2002 and repeating this position in 2010.

This was the beginning of a new era of Iran volleyball, which experienced its missile growth in international levels and managed to prove its complete superiority by winning the championship title and the gold medal of the last two Asian Games (2014-2018).

The Olympics

Following the new path that has begun, Iran's men have participated in two Olympic Games. The first time Iran volleyball team was in Olympics was 5 years ago in Rio. Iran took the 5th place on that competitions in it's first presentment. Iran hired Vladimir Alekno for it's Second presence in Olympics and entered the Tokyo 2020 Games by his Guidance and stands on 9th place among 12 teams. Of the other reason that Iran could gain great success in various world and Asian arenas in youth, Junior, and Senior age groups is to inject the updated science of volleyball to the players by employing such great coaches as: Ivans Bugajenkovs, Utsa Cetkovic, Park Ki-won, Milorad Kijac, Zoran Gajic, Juilo Velasco, Slobodan Kovac, Raul Lozano, Igor Kolakovic, Vladimir Alekno And Behrouz Ataei. Asian & World Chairs taken in AVC & FIVB by the Iranian representatives are of the other honors worth mentioning. Ms. Maryam Hessaby, Mr. Amir Tolouekian and Dr. Homa Abedifar are respectively the three members of FIVB in Communication & Marketing Commission, Events Council Commission and Anti-doping Expert of Medical committee.

Dr. Mahmoud Afshardoust, Mr. Mohammad Shahmiri, Mr. Mehdi Eslami, Mr. Masoud Yazdanpanah, Dr. Gholamreza Norouzi and Mr. Nader Ansari are respectively the six members of AVC in Coaches, Referee, Finance Committees, Events Council, Medical and Beach Volleyball Committees.

Dr. Mohammad Reza Davarzani, the current president of Iran Volleyball Federation is the member of AVC & FIVB Administrative Board and Finance Commission member. He is the first Iranian who could ever get the most important and the highest position in volleyball world.
